

Bow Valley S.B. Propose to Raise $240,000 by Loan

A meeting of the ratepayers of the Milo, Queenstown and Majorville districts and representatives of the Bow Valley school division was held in Milo last week for the purpose of discussing the advantages of the proposition of the Bow Valley School Board to raise immediately $240,000 by debenture and to go ahead at once with all the building programs in the division simultaneously, over the old system of borrowing $60,000 annually and completing one building program a year. The program under consideration is to build a six room school in or near Milo, a dormitory at Cluny, and auditorium at Arrowwood and a school at Gleichen, with four rooms.

Mr. Colpoys chairman of the Bow Valley School board was asked to explain the legislation recently passed by the House relative to borrowings for school construction. He said it is now possible for school divisions to borrow on one debenture the whole amount for school building purposes in the division. In this case approximately $240,000. Of this amount the government will pay 12 and a half percent, will advance 12 and a half percent free of interest and will guarantee payment of the balance $180,000 which will have to be raised by the division. Repayment of this $180,000 would necessitate an increase of from 2 to 2 and a half in the levy for 15 years. The difference between raising approximately a quarter of a million at 4 1/2 % and the present method with government assistance would mean a saving to the division of one mill or $7,000 per year for 15 years.

A vote was taken at this point which established the fact that the meeting was unanimously in favor of the government proposition of the one big debenture, and immediate building of the schools.

A vote was taken as to whether a six room school should be established south of the river and the meeting voted that this should be done.

Mr. Larsen informed the meeting that while the school divisions may borrow, without a vote, by debenture up to $60,000 a year, the ratepayer may demand a vote on any borrowing in excess of $60,000. Five ratepayer in each of 20 percent of the school districts, if there are 55 may force a vote, that is five ratepayers in each of eleven school districts throughout the school division. However, he cautioned that if a vote was taken and the plan defeated, the chance of obtaining a school even under the old method would be weakened, as the Board of Public Utilities might consider that the majority of the ratepayers do not wish for a school and so may even turn down a $60,000 debenture. He also stated that the vote would have every chance of carrying if Milo and district, Cluny Arrowwood and Gleichen are all in favor and vote strongly for it.

Mr. Colpoys stated that if the Board wished to go ahead with the proposition to build all the schools at once, regardless of the result of the vote, the money might be borrowed from the bank over a five year term, but in this case the school division would have to pay the full rate of interest on the whole amount.

Mr. Larsen state that at a recent superintendents conference it was stated that some school divisions have consistently borrowed $60,000 annually. It was thought that this had been done purposely as the districts in question had expected the ratepayers might turn it down if it came to a vote. Consequently the Board of Public Utilities might not approve of any such practice.

A motion carried unanimously that the board be given authority by this meeting to go ahead with the building proposition over the whole division. Another motion carried that a six-room school be established in or near the village of Milo.

It was pointed out that if and when this new school is built a local board of trustees should be appointed, as that is the only way the board of the school division can keep in touch with the ratepayers. The divisional board welcomes at any time delegations from local school boards for discussions on school matters.

The meeting was asked when the building program would start and was told that debentures must be drawn up and then approved by the

(This is the first of a series of articles written for the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association by the editor of the Pictou Advocate.)

This happy era was brought to an abrupt close by the signing of the infamous "Ribbentrop - Molotov Pact" in 1939, when Hitler, to obtain a free hand against Poland, declared the Baltic states to belong to Russia's sphere of influence. In 1940 the Red army marched in, and framed elections backed by bayonets brought the "unanimous demand" from the Baltic states to be included in the U.S.S.R. as Soviet Socialist Republics. Their incorporation into Soviet Russia has never, to this day, been recognized by the United States of America or by Great Britain.

The Baltic peoples remained where they were almost to a man during the first soviet occupation of 1940-41 and also during the later German occupation. They had nowhere else to go for one thing, and had no idea of the real nature of the impending change. They were therefore very favorably placed to observe the process of the sovietisation of their homelands and are in a position now, having fled their countries in 1944, to give a detailed account of what went on in every sphere of life under the soviet domination. They all testify that only by such excesses as terror, concentration camps, typhus, scurvy starvation and forced collectivisation only by renewing such medieval processes as inquisition carried out by the dreaded MVD only by the absolute suppression of all liberty turning the population into unthinking cogs in the agricultural or industrial machine was the U.S.S.R. able to realize its experiments in the Baltic states.

When Hitler attacked Russia in June 1941 the soviets retreated too rapidly to cover up all traces of their guilt. Unable to evacuate the inmates of all prisons and concentration camps, they executed them in nearby forests and interred them in mass graves. They did not kill the prisoners outright but first tortured them. They cut strips out of their backs, tore out their tongues, gouged out their eyes, cut off their ears and noses.

The Port Of Churchill

FOR MANY YEARS the people of the Prairie Provinces have been interested in the development of the port of Churchill. Far removed as they are from both the Atlantic and the Pacific seaboard, the possibility of a port for ocean-going vessels so close to the prairies has been of great concern to farmers and business men in that part of Canada. When the port of Churchill was opened in 1931 there was great optimism regarding the benefits which the new outlet would bring to the people of the West. The northern terminal of the Hudson Bay Railway, the port had a large grain elevator and a well constructed wharf which provided easy access from the bay for ships.

Lower Costs Of Shipping

At that time it was expected that there would be a saving of twelve cents a bushel on the transportation of wheat shipped from points in Saskatchewan and Manitoba to Churchill, as compared with the cost of shipping it by way of Montreal. A similar saving was anticipated in the cost of manufactured goods brought in by the Hudson Bay route. However, the short shipping season in that area, high insurance rates and other obstacles resulted in less shipping being passed through the port than had been expected. In 1944 the Hudson Bay Route Association was formed by a voluntary group of prairie residents who were convinced of the value of the port to the West. This organization endeavored to secure more business for the Hudson Bay route, and while it met with some success, it is still believed that more business should be handled through the port each season.

Request More Wheat Be Sent

Last year, 5,500,000 bushels of wheat were shipped out of Churchill and 1,200 tons of imports came in by that route. These were record figures for the port. Sixteen ships came in during the two-month season, which opens on August 5th, but only three of these had two-way cargoes. The Hudson Bay Route Association has requested that this year 25,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat should be shipped by way of Churchill and that the port should be opened as soon as ice conditions permit navigation, rather than early in August regardless of the season. They are also asking that insurance rates be lowered, that port facilities be improved and that the government look into the possibilities of developing water power along the Hudson Bay Railway. For some time the value of the port has been a matter of controversy between various interests throughout the country but whatever the merits of the arguments which have been advanced, the value of an ocean port to the West could not be denied. It would also seem to be in the interests of economy to make the utmost use of the facilities which have been provided for shipping wheat by that route and for bringing imported goods to the prairies.

$10 Million Needed For Flood Fund

WINNIPEG. — H. W. Manning, general chairman of the Manitoba Flood Relief fund, said that unless a minimum of $10,000,000 is contributed, more than 85,000 victims of the Red river valley face the most tragic ruin in Canadian history.

"Ten million dollars is the absolute minimum . . . (for) the bare essentials for the resumption of home-life when the waters subside.

"Anything less will mean that hundreds of Manitoba families will face a long period—perhaps a lifetime—of misery and squalor.

"We are confident that Canadians will not permit this to happen to fellow-citizens."

Prices For Farm Products Show Increase

OTTAWA. — Farm prices of agricultural products in Canada, excluding Newfoundland, advanced in March over February, but were below level of March last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported.

The bureau said that on the basis 1935-39 prices equal 100, the farm prices index for all Canada stood at 246.2 during March, up 3.5 points from the February index level of 242.7, but 4.9 points below the 251.1 level of March last year.

The bureau said the March increase was largely due to higher livestock prices, with small increases also being registered for eggs and potatoes. Compared with a year ago, farm prices were lower for all commodities except livestock.

The March indexes for provinces, with the indexes for the corresponding month last year in brackets, were:

Prince Edward Island 180.0 (199.8); Nova Scotia 192.3 (216.4); New Brunswick 208.7 (233.4); Quebec 252.1 (267.6); Ontario 253.2 (254.3); Manitoba 248.8 (253.8); Saskatchewan 237.7 (240.5); Alberta 256.2 (257.0); British Columbia 234.9 (247.3).

Record Prices For Redwater Oil Rights

EDMONTON. — The Crown Trust company paid the Alberta government $1,611,711 for oil rights on a single quarter section of land in the Redwater oilfield, shattering all previous price records on government reserves.

The 160-acre plot is on the south-east fringe of the field adjoining a quarter recently proven by the Roy-alite-Triad team.

The sale was one of 13 which netted the government $6,607,274. They covered about 2,000 acres in the Redwater field, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton, and in the new Excelsior field, 12 miles north of Edmonton.

Results were announced by Hon. N. E. Tanner, mines and minerals minister.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

SUCCESS

She Knew What She Wanted . . .

By Jeanne O. Wellenkamp

CHRISTOPHER ADAMS sat behind his polished mahogany desk and wondered how he was going to tell his wealthiest client that she was wealthy no longer.

"A letter would be easiest," he thought. He pictured the words standing black and final on his rich bond letterhead: "... regret to tell you that your oil properties have suddenly ceased yielding. Apparently the wells are not to be as productive as we had hoped..." enclosed is the check . . ."

He could picture her fingering his letter in pleased expectation before opening it, her eyes still as defenseless as on the first day she had walked into his office. That had been four, no, more than five years ago. "You're a lawyer?" she had asked timidly.

"Yes. What can I do for you?" he'd answered without looking up from the old letters he kept on his battered desk for the purpose of giving chance clients an impression of activity.

"I work here in the building, and your name is right at the top of the directory," she confided, as one believing that he led the list by virtue of excellence rather than by courtesy of the alphabet. "I think I need a lawyer."

She laid down some papers, her hair swinging limply as she bent forward.

She was a soft person, observed Christopher Adams, as if life had already wilted whatever starch she'd been endowed with.

He picked up the documents. Although he admitted to himself that he was not as yet a successful man, he knew that he was quick, analytical, almost intuitive; that all he had lacked was opportunity. A glance through her papers, and he felt he understood all there was to know about her: born on a farm, she had grown up in an atmosphere of work and worry. She saw the lean years suck the life from her parents, and did not even guess that youth was a time for joy. Lacking color as she lacked confidence, she now worked at a filing case, grateful that she had found a way to support herself and pay the small tax on the old farm.

And suddenly, on this meager inheritance, the discovery of oil. Christopher Adams remembered how quickly he had recognized his chance. "Indeed, you do need a lawyer," he told her. "I'm especially glad that you came to me. I don't want you to make a single move without my advice."

Thus, without one false word, he indicated to her that he was wise in the intricate world of oil, and although it was his first contact with black gold, he manoeuvred like a veteran.

As the money flowed into her account in a seemingly endless stream, he watched her transformation. Good food brought color to her cheeks. Her hair and skin glowed, and her step became light and free.

She would come to his office for approval—did he like her new coiffure, the Paris suit, the furs? Her eyes waited for his verdict.

"No," thought Christopher Adams, "I can't snatch all that away from her with a letter. I'm not quite that much of a coward . . ." Perhaps break the news by telephone—, and with the thought, he could hear the upward lift of her "Hello?"

Once he said to her, "You always answer the phone as if you expected something wonderful."

"I do!" she cried. "I always think that perhaps my husband is calling me!"

Her husband. The words echoed faintly in Christopher Adams' mind.

He had seen the fortune hunters flock around. Once he had even warned her, weighing his words carefully: "Watch your step. You're lovely and you're rich. You've got to be smart enough for two women."

"Don't worry about me," she laughed. "I know what I want."

What she had wanted, Christopher Adams thought as he fingered his telephone, was perhaps the most cynical fortune hunter of them all: a man grown calculating, who had seized this opportunity to ensure prosperity always before denied him. In return for his easy compliments she showered him with love and luxury. And while she, at home, waited breathlessly for his call, he would often be seen driving into the night with the alluring righthead he called his secretary.

"No," thought Christopher Adams again, pushing the instrument away. "I won't pull the world out from under her with a telephone call." He looked around his office as if drawing courage from its paneled walls. Then he put a few papers in his pocket and walked through the reception hall and spoke to the girl at the desk.

"I'm leaving for home. I have some important oil matters to take up with Mrs. Adams."

As he reached the outer door, he turned once more to the lovely righthead. "Draw a check for two weeks' pay," he directed. "You need not come back after today. I shall be spending most of my time with my wife. She needs me."

And, squaring his shoulders, Christopher Adams walked out.

Shelter Belts Urged For Farmlands

REGINA. — Farmers breaking new land are urged to leave shelter belts around farmlands wherever possible, Saskatchewan agricultural department officials said, according to a bureau of publications release.

They said this would apply particularly to the breaking of new land in the frontier regions of Saskatchewan, now being made available for agriculture.

Farmers in all areas would benefit greatly through increased yields by planting shelter belts around individual quarter or half sections.

Current projects of roadside tree planting in municipalities call for planting not less than 75 feet back from the centre of the road. Crops may be grown between trees and roads.

Poplar, willow, Manitoba maple and caragana are most commonly used for shelter belts in Saskatchewan. Rapid growing, they provide effective shelter within five years.

Business Outlook A Question For Flooded Manitoba

WINNIPEG. — Manitoba business men don't know where they stand. The devastating floods through the whole Red River Valley leave the business outlook a big question mark.

Some businesses will boom when the floods subside. Millions of dollars worth of damage must be repaired—much of it quickly to make homes livable and industrial and retail premises fit for operation.

Business connected even indirectly with agriculture is at a standstill in the flood zone. When it will get back to normal will depend to a large extent on how fast the federal and provincial governments start pouring relief and rehabilitation funds into farming districts.

Red River Valley farmers are destitute. All but a handful have had to be evacuated. Much livestock has been slaughtered because feed ran out. Farm homes and other buildings stand in several feet of water. Farm implements are rusting.

No one knows the crop prospects for 1950 in the valley. Most experts forecast it will be weeks before the Red is back within its banks. It will be much longer before the river-bordering towns can be repopulated; and it is those towns which supply the farm community. Transportation will be handicapped for months.

The floods in 1948 were followed by excellent crops in the valley. But they were much less widespread; and the clean-up job was relatively short.

There is some doubt whether many farmers can get in crops at all this season. If that is so, the provincial government's budget forecast of a boom business year for Manitoba may have to be revised.

The Red River country is among the province's most prosperous agricultural areas in normal years. Crop failures are unknown there. And Manitoba, despite rapid advances in other industrial production, is still basically an agricultural province.

Bad times in the Red River Valley can only be reflected in reduced business activity in Winnipeg and elsewhere.

Yippee! DOUGHNUT TWISTS

Raised light and tender with new fast DRY Yeast!

● There's a new twist in doughnuts — a new thrill in all your baking! Say goodbye to perishable yeast — Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast keeps full strength until you use it — fast-acting when you use it. Get a dozen packages — it keeps in your cupboard!

DOUGHNUT TWISTS

● Scald 1/2 c. milk, 1/2 c. granulated sugar, 1 1/2 tsp. salt and 1/4 c. shortening; cool to lukewarm. Meanwhile, measure into a large bowl 1/2 c. lukewarm water, 1 tsp. granulated sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Sprinkle with 1 envelope Fleischmann's Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. 1 HEN stir well.

Add cooled milk mixture and stir in 2 well-beaten eggs and 1 tsp. vanilla. Stir in 2 c. once-sifted bread flour; beat until smooth. Work in 2 1/4 c. (about) once-sifted bread flour. Knead on lightly-floured board until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl and grease top of dough. Cover and set in a warm place, free from draught. Let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down dough and roll out into a rectangle, 1/2" thick; loosen dough; roll again to 1/2" thickness. Cut into strips 7" long and 1/2" wide. Fold strips in half, twist, then pinch ends together. Arrange, well apart, on lightly-floured cookie sheets; grease tops. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Carefully lift a few at a time, into shortening that has been heated to 365° — hot enough to brown a cube of day-old bread in 60 seconds. When under-sides are browned, turn and cook second sides. Carefully lift from fat and drain on absorbent paper. Coat with a mixture of fruit sugar and cinnamon or brush hot doughnuts with the following syrup: Heat, stirring until the sugar dissolves, 1 c. granulated sugar, 1/4 c. butter or margarine and 1/4 c. water; simmer 5 mins., then stir in 1 tsp. vanilla; keep hot over boiling water — if syrup becomes too sugary, stir in a little boiling water and heat to boiling point. Yield — 3 dozen doughnuts.

Note: Dough may be cut with an orthodox doughnut cutter; try the doughnuts and the "holes".

"To pity distress is but human; to relieve it is God-like."

So long ago wrote the American philosopher Horace Mann as he meditated on the spontaneous kindness of warm hearted people of differing faiths and beliefs as they instinctively rush to aid their fellow human beings in distress. The people of southern Manitoba have suffered a catastrophe from flood unequalled in the history of Canada. Every human being in a rural area containing 12 towns and villages, 65 miles long and 25 miles wide, have been obliged suddenly to leave their farms and homes. Everything they possessed is under water much of their belongings and good deal of their livestock and seed is destroyed. Tens of thousands of city people in Winni-

MIGRATION MIRACLE
this was done to Baltic patriots in their own country by a foreign invader.

Small wonder that the Germans were treated as liberators. Some Balts who perhaps found a wife in the graves could not settle down to normal life, but joined the Germans with one thought in mind, revenge—as long as they could draw breath. Understandable as this is however, these persons in Germany are now DPs as under the eligibility clause, a person who voluntarily assisted the enemy against the United Nations is not granted DP status.

The German occupation lasted until 1944 and it was soon learned that one form of totalitarianism does not differ very much from another, and their "liberators" were not German peoples but the Nazis, indoctrinated with race theories which automatically classified their Baltic victims as members of "inferior races" and whose policy was the colonization of the Baltic states as vassal states of Germany. Resistance movements rapidly grew up, especially against the recruitment for compulsory labor. At first Germans called for volunteers, the call being garnished with inducements of every kind but there were few simple enough to put themselves forward. Then a labor mobilization was proclaimed. When that also was of no avail the Baltic police were ordered to hunt down the youth of the land but these orders leaked out so that the people in the areas in which the man hunts were to take place were not "available" at the scheduled time. The Gestapo then organized its own press gangs which surrounded cinemas, theatres, schools and even churches. Men, women and children were dragged off to Germany as slave laborers with no opportunity of taking leave of their families, and these were the slave laborers released in 1945 to become DPs. Even in Germany, resistance went on and they escaped from their places of work at the first opportunity. It cannot be said that the Baltic peoples, with very few exceptions, collaborated with the Germans or worked of their own free will in German war industries.

Mobilization, too was a similar failure. It was not until the Red army was again on the borders of the Baltic states that volunteers came forward, and then only to take up arms against their direct enemy, communism. They did not doubt for a moment that their course was just. They knew that the U.S.A. and Britain had never recognized the annexation of the Baltic countries by the Soviet Union, and they were familiar with the contents of the Atlantic Charter (To be continued.)
